

Not WFH - Friday May 8th May

Hello all,

School is closed to everyone today for the first time since this all started.

A good time to say a massive 'thank you' to all of the staff who have volunteered their time in the holidays and previous bank holidays to do their 'bit.' Also for the time and effort put into their Curriculum Updates and the work that they are doing at home whilst looking after and educating their own children and caring for their own families. A great team of dedicated and committed professionals.

A time to reflect -

- Children have missed 23 days of being at school. But unlike illness or holidays they should still have been learning.

- Has the time been wasted ? Not at all time with your family, less distractions, the sun has mostly shone and they are safe with you.

- Potentially more skills have been learnt - maybe baking, cooking, mechanics, carpentry, DIY, riding a bike, noticing nature, enjoying walks together, developing a project, learning a new skill..... the list might be small or big.

If it was going to happen then a time when the weather has been kind and it is our shortest half term is best ! More news to follow after Sunday I am sure

Kind regards and best wishes

Mr Batstone
