

The Pig and Rabbit Who Lost Their Family.

A long time ago there was a big pink pig and a very fluffy, bushy tailed rabbit who were both mothers. One day, when they were walking in the woods with their families, their children ran off. The Grandma ran off to find the children but she couldn't see them anywhere and then she could not find her way back to the big pink pig and the fluffy rabbit. So she was lost too and thought she would never see them again. When the children realised they were lost, they searched and searched for their mums but they ran so much while they were searching that they became very hungry. So they searched for milk, water, apples and carrots. Unfortunately, they could not find anything.

The big pink pig and the fluffy rabbit were very sad and upset that their children had run away and they sighed wondering what to do. They searched everywhere, even through the snowy mountains at night which were shimmering bright with colourful snow that glimmered in the moonlight. It shone beautifully and wonderfully. Then they were both so tired that they fell to the ground because their legs were aching and they fell fast asleep.

Meanwhile, the children became so scared of something in the trees shaking the branches. They looked up and they suddenly found a fox! The fox jumped down from the tree and frightened them, it had red eyes and ran up to one of the little pigs and scratched it. All the little rabbits jumped and kicked the red eyed fox and it ran off. Fortunately, the little pig was not badly hurt.

In the morning, the mothers woke from their sleep and found some lovely juicy apples the big pink pig could eat and she saved some for her children and family in case they were hungry too. The rabbit spotted some crunchy carrots and she saved some for her family and children. The pig spotted some milk for her family and children and the rabbit spotted some water for hers.

They started their search again and after a very long time they finally found them! They were so happy and the pig and the rabbit shared the food and drink they had found with their very hungry children. Soon they found Grandma too and were so proud to be back together with their families.

The big pink pig and the fluffy bushy tailed rabbit were friends forever after all they had been through. They were so excited they had a huge pig and rabbit party when they got home. The party was full of bouncy castles and lots of party food. There were also lots of cakes and decorations of bunting, flowers and balloons with string on them so they don't fly away. It was a very happy occasion and the children were all so glad they were home after their tiring night alone that they soon fell fast asleep, full of cake and without even brushing their teeth!
